Five Fliers 'Bail Out' With Parachutes; Body Found In Charred Wreckage.

(By Associated Press)

SAN DIEGO, Cal. — Two navy airplanes collided in mid-air over a Southern California desert, and early today one of the wrecked ships was found with a flier's battered body inside.

The five other aviators in the collision were reported safe, but one official said only four had shown up and one was still missing.

Identified by the light of lanterns and flashlights, at the scene of the wreck, as the dead man was James Addison Crowson, 24, radioman first class.

Deputy Sheriff Ernest Cox returned to El Centro, 70 miles east of here, to report that his party had reached the wreckage of one plane after sighting smoke, and had found the body in the charred ship.

It lay in a ravine near the top of a hill. The other plane apparently fell a mile or more away, Cox said.

Cox insisted that nothing had yet been seen of Ensign Walter Glen Barnes, jr., pilot, United States naval reserve, who earlier had been reported safe.

Ensign Harold Nathan Funk, 27, of Wray, Col., pilot who suffered a badly wrenched knee and severe body bruises, was in a hospital at El Centro. The other survivors, released after first aid treatment, were:

ASKS 20 YEARS FOR CALL AS HE ENTERS PEN

Judge, Prosecutor Recommend That Child Molester Serve Maximum Sentence.

OTHER CHARGES PENDING

Marriott Tells Parole Board He'll Be Tried on These If He's Released Early.

County authorities recommended today that George Call, 30, convicted child molester, be required to serve the maximum of 20 years under his sentence as he entered the Ohio penitentiary to begin a term for assaulting a 14-year-old Bellville school girl.

In a report to the Ohio Pardon and Parole commission, Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston and Prosecutor G. W. Marriott recommended the maximum for Call. Judge Huston sentenced him to a three-to-20-year term in the pen Thursday after a jury had convicted him of rape.

The sentence was the maximum for a conviction for the offense. Sheriff E. P. Long took Call to Columbus yesterday afternoon to start his sentence.

The authorities' report to the parole commission urged that he be held for the maximum time as a "protection for society."

Keep Other Charges Alive.

Prosecutor Marriott told the commission that other indictments for kidnaping and attempted rape against Call will be kept alive so that he can be tried on either of them should he be released before serving the maximum sentence.

Call, a former Sharon township WPA worker and father of three children, was accused of abducting two Bellville girls, assaulting one of them, and attempting to lure a 14-year-old Butler girl from school.

Authorities were convinced that he was involved in other child molesting cases in the Mansfield area, but he denied their charges.

He was convicted Thursday afternoon by a common pleas court jury which deliberated only 10 minutes. Call previously had been declared sane by three examining physicians.

At Loudonville's Double Dedication

Loudonville's most famous son came home and some 2,000 persons turned out for a double dedication yesterday—opening of the new addition to the Flxible company plant and the addition to the high school. Shown above at the microphone is Charles F. Kettering, who went from Loudonville to the vice presidency of General Motors corporation and a place in the sun as one of the world's leaders in the field of research. Seated, left to right, are E. N. Dietrich, state director of education; R. F. McMullen, superintendent of schools in Loudonville and J. Frank McClure, president of the Loudonville board of education. The picture was taken at the dedication of the high school addition.

Loudonville Turns Out To Welcome Kettering

General Motors Official, Still 'Ket' To Home Folks, Addresses 2,000 At School, Plant Dedications.

LOUDONVILLE—Back to this town in the Ashland county hills in which he spent his boyhood, came Charles F. Kettering yesterday to take part in double ceremonies which dedicated more than a quarter of a million dollars worth of improvements.

Kettering, vice president of General Motors and one of the giants in the world of automotive engineering and science, returned to his "home town" for the formal dedication of the $125,000 addition to the Flxible company which he helped start, and of which he is president, and the $170,000 new school building addition.

The town turned out almost enmasse for the ceremonies and to welcome the world-wide figure who is still just "Ket" to them. About 2,000 persons attended the ceremonies.

Dedication of the Flxible plant took place in the afternoon, with Kettering as the principal speaker. Hugo Young, executive vice president of the company, and who started the business with Kettering years ago, presided, while George B. Smith, vice president, introduced the speaker.

Traces Flxible Struggle.

Kettering cited Loudonville as a "typical town" and told something of the struggle which the Flxible company had to carry on during lean years. He recalled the discouraging years that followed 1921 when it was one of 13 companies manufacturing side cars for mo-

AIR RAIDS INTENSIFIED

Russians Set Up Loudspeakers, Say 'Germans Coming Unless You Surrender.'

(By Associated Press)

COPENHAGEN — Withdrawal of Soviet Russian troops from part of Liinahamari, the Arctic port of Finland's Petsamo district, was reported today in Stockholm dispatches, while Scandinavian correspondents said reinforcement of Finns and Russians on the Salla front indicated imminence of a major battle.

These dispatches said all except one Russian cruiser had left Liinahamari, and that the Finns had cut the road to Salmijarvi, also in the Arctic area, thus complicating the Russian service of supply.

In southeastern Finland, on the Karelian isthmus, the Russians were said to have set up loudspeakers advising the Finnish defenders to "surrender within 48 hours, or the Germans are coming."

In the Salla sector, one report from a Danish newspaper correspondent said the Red army had at least 40,000 men there and had been bringing up more in the past few days. He said the Finns also were reinforcing and preparing an attempt to encircle the invaders.

A Swedish correspondent said large numbers of fresh Russian troops were being dropped by parachute from planes.

More Air Raids Reported.

Similar tactics were reported on the Karelian isthmus yesterday, but the Finns said their crack marksmen had picked off many of the invaders in midair and had

BODY FROZEN

Unidentified Man Found Dead Near New Washington.

NEW WASHINGTON — The frozen body of an unidentified man was found near here yesterday afternoon in the woods adjoining the A. C. & Y. railroad by members of a train crew.

Officials believe the man had been dead for about one week. According to Sheriff Albert French the body was identified as that of a man who had stopped at a New Washington elevator about a week ago.

Workers at the elevator said they gave him some cigarets, and that he told them he was 68 years old and lived in Kenton.

Sheriff French is checking with Harden county authorities in an effort to identify the body. The body was removed to the Geiger funeral home in Mansfield.

COUNTY REHIRES RELIEF STAFF

Commissioners Save Jobs of 12 Democratc Appointees For Another Year.

Relief Director J. V. Finney and 11 employes at the city-county relief headquarters in Mansfield had been re-employed today for one year by county commissioners.

Re-appointment of the director and his staff was expected since city council recently turned the city relief administration back to the county for the prime purpose of saving the jobs of six members of the staff.

Employment of the relief director and a part of the staff previously was under the control of the city administration. With a Republican mayor taking office the first of the year, it was considered likely that at least a part of the relief workers would be replaced.

Finney and six of the employes are in the administrative department, while the other five are in the WPA certification and surplus commodities divisions.

Re-appointed in the administration office were Mrs. Pearl Hautzenroeder, senior case worker; Mrs. Agatha Leonard and Miss Margery Dise, case workers; John Farrell, clerk; Mrs. Lydia Brandt, clerk, and Miss Dorothy Kennedy, stenographer.

Others who were re-employed were Miss Margaret Austin, statistician; Miss Dorothy G. Arnold, WPA referral agent; Sam Williams, surplus commodities distributor; Miss Esther Blancett, clerk and Peter Minnetti, night watchman.

ASKS ALIEN BAR

Bill Would Check Immigration From War Countries.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—A bill to prohibit immigration of aliens from European and Asiatic nations at war to the United States for permanent residence during hostilities had been introduced today by Rep. James Seccombe, Ohio Republican.

Only those persons holding unexpired immigration visas would be admitted under the bill. It would instruct the secretary of state to order consuls abroad to discontinue the issuance of immigration visas.

The measure would permit, however, the negotiation of reciprocal immigration agreements with Canada and Newfoundland. The agreement would limit the immigrants from these countries to a number equal to those persons born in the United States who were admitted to them for permanent residence in a fiscal year.

Byrd Arrives In Antarctic Area, Establishes Base

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd was expected to begin establishment of the first of two bases in the Antarctic today as part of a government sponsored and financed expedition to explore natural resources of the south polar regions.

The first group arrived yesterday aboard the U. S. S. North Star, a motorship belonging to the interior department, others will arrive within a few days aboard the U. S. S. Bear, a naval vessel. The camp will be set up at Kainan bay, a few miles from the Bay of Whales.

Approximately 100 men will operate from two bases. The west base is where Byrd is now. The east base, to be set up in March, will be on the coast of Palmerland, about 1,200 miles from the Kainan bay base.

Coal has been found in the region, but has been adjudged of very low grade. Scientists with the expedition hope to find copper, iron, or even gold and silver beneath the ice and snow of the Antarctic.

The exploration party is keeping in contact with the outside world by radio.

CIO Head Asks Possible White House Candidate To Speak

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—John L. Lewis created a new political puzzle today with an invitation to Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.) a potential candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, to address the golden anniversary convention of the United Mine Workers at Columbus Jan. 23.

Politicians recalled the Mine Workers supported President Roosevelt in the 1936 election as the "greatest humanitarian of our times" and made loans and contributions totaling almost $6,00,000 to the Democratic campaign organizations.

They wondered whether Lewis' invitation, in which he called Wheeler "one of the most eminent of our contemporary statesmen" and asked him to speak "upon such public questions as you may consider germane," might mean that the CIO chieftain would back the westerner this year.

There was talk in the capital also that the invitation might be intended to express dissatisfaction with recent policies of the Roosevelt administration.

Still other possibilities discussed were that the United Mine Workers' president was merely making a general gesture indicating the kind of man he would like to see in the presidency.

Wheeler, who once ran for vice president on a third party ticket headed by the father of Senator La Follette (Prog., Wis.) accepted the invitation.

The Columbus meeting, which Lewis said would be attended by 2,000 or more delegates and would be in session for ten days or two weeks, is expected to make some sort of political pronouncement.

WHERE'S WIFE

Miner Asks Officials If He's Married; Find's It's True.

CUMBERLAND, Md — (AP) — Courthouse Clerks are as puzzled over this letter as, apparently, the young Pennsylvania miner who wrote it.

He asked them to check on a marriage "that was to of taken place April 14, 1937," saying "I have no knowledge of ever being married, but if I am, please let me know, and send me the marriage license."

Clerks assured him he had taken out a license and furthermore, had been married the same day.

BOUQUET LINGERS

Thousands of Beer, Champagne Bottles Break In Fire.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The "bouquet" of wine and champagne lingered today about an East 30th street building occupied by the Lubeck Distributing company. Three hundred cases of champagne, 600 cases of wine and 3,000 cases of beer spilled over the premises as fire burst the bottles.

Alfred Polizzi, president of the concern, estimated building damage at $3,000 and stock damage at $12,000.

All Hope Given Up for Mine Blast Victims; Find 30 Bodies

(By Associated Press)

BARTLEY, W Va.— Mine families ever conscious of the danger of losing their loved ones displayed little hysteria while preparing today for burial of the 92 men given up for dead in the Bartley No 1 mine gas explosion

Stoically they made ready to claim the victims as rescue crews dug deeper into blast-torn corridors 600 feet underground, no longer seeking living men but the bodies of coal diggers apparently killed in their tracks.

Thirty victims had been found leaving 62 still in the debris-clogged "rooms" of the various mine entries two miles from the foot of the 620-foot perpendicular shaft.

None of the bodies had been brought to the surface and only three were identified. Rescuers planned to move them to the foot of the shaft for identification before starting them out today.

Finally breaking through to the center of the blast scene after 38 hours of tunneling, workers yesterday found only battered bodies and abandoned hope for miners caught further back in the workings.

Raymond E. Salvati, vice-president of the Pond Creek Pocahontas Coal corporation who led rescue crews day and night declared penetration was sufficient to eliminate any possibility the men had escaped explosion gas

"They are all dead," he added.

Weary rescuers, however, speeded up their digging toward the entombed but many long hours of toil remained ahead. Slate falls and "dead air" continued to retard progress. Officials said it might be Sunday or Monday before all bodies had been removed.

BIG SISTER

GEE, IF WE WERE ONLY RICH WE COULD GIVE SO MUCH MORE TO THIS LITTLE BOY AND HIS MOTHER THAN JUST A FEW CANS OF FOOD.
WELL, A BASKET OF CANNED FOOD WILL LOOK PRETTY GOOD TO PEOPLE WHO HAVENT ANYTHING.
IT WILL KEEP THEM ALIVE FOR A WHILE.
AND MAYBE THIS BUCKET OF SOUP WONT BE A BIG HELP!
IF DAD WERE ONLY HOME TO LET US HAVE SOME MONEY. I'VE GOT SO LITTLE LEFT. ONE DOLLAR IS ALL I CAN POSSIBLY SPARE THEM.
BOY! THAT'LL LOOK LIKE A MILLION TO 'EM RIGHT NOW.
FORGRAVE
OH, BUT YOU'RE GOOD TO US. WE WERE GETTING PRETTY DESPERATE, JIMMY AND I. BUT THAT SOUP WILL PUT NEW LIFE INTO US.
I WISH IT COULD HAVE BEEN MORE.
NOW, JIMMY, HERE'S A DOLLAR MAYBE YOU KNOW SOMETHING YOUR MOTHER LIKES SPECIALLY WELL YOU'D LIKE TO BUY HER.
YES'M' I KNOW LOTS OF THINGS, BUT - BUT THERE'S SOMETHING THAT IS, I OWE A SORT OF DEBT.
I THINK, IF YOU DON'T MIND I'LL USE THIS FOR THAT. WE SURE DO THANK YOU FOR BEING SO GOOD TO US.
THINK OF THAT! HIS FIRST THOUGHT IS GET SQUARE WITH THE WORLD
HE'S BEEN BUYING SOME STUFF ON TICK.
FORGRAVE
HA! DIDN'T I KNOW IT WOULD BE SO? OUR MILK IS SAFE THIS MORNING. HELLO' WHAT'S THIS UNDER THE BOTTLE? MAYBE A NOTE FROM THE MILKMAN.
NOTE, MY EYE! IT'S - WHY, IT'S - OH, BUDDY MUST SEE THIS!
YEP! UNDER THE MILK BOTTLE' SEE ANYTHING STRANGE ABOUT IT?
IT'S A DOLLAR BILL'
LOOK AT IT! SEE THAT TORN CORNER? THAT'S THE VERY BILL I GAVE TO JIMMY TO SPEND ON HIS MOTHER!
AND HE - OH, THE POOR LITTLE SHAVER. TRYING TO PAY FOR THE MILK HE TOOK. HE DIDN'T KNOW IT WAS OUR MILK. HE DOESN'T YET. HE DIDN'T MEAN TO STEAL IT, AFTER ALL!
FORGRAVE
BUT WE CAN'T KEEP THIS DOLLAR! WE GAVE IT TO JIMMY BECAUSE WE WANTED HIM TO HAVE IT.
BUT IT WON'T DO TO GIVE IT BACK TO HIM EITHER. HE'D RECOGNIZE IT SAME AS YOU DID BY THE TORN CORNER
OH, DEAR! THAT WOULD BE BAD' IT MIGHT EMBARRASS HIM TERRIBLY'
BUT THAT DOLLAR SERVED A MIGHTY GOOD PURPOSE. IT MADE JIMMY FEEL A LOT BETTER TO THINK HE'D PAID FOR THE MILK HE TOOK.
LAWSEE' WE DIDN'T WANT PAY FOR THE MILK AFTER WE LEARNED HOW IT HAD BEEN USED'
LISTEN, THE FOOD WE TOOK THEM WON'T LAST FOREVER. WE'LL SPEND THIS DOLLAR FOR MORE FOOD FOR THEM. THAT'S THE ANSWER!
FORGRAVE
I WANT TO SEE MY DAD! THAY! WHEN'S HE COMIN' HOME?
THAT'S JUST WHAT I'M WONDERING, DONNIE!
HE SAID HE'D NOT BE GONE BUT A SHORT TIME. BUT GOODNESS! HE'S BEEN GONE LOTS LONGER THAN A SHORT TIME ALREADY.
IT THEEMS LIKE A MILLION YEARS TO ME.
IF IT WEREN'T THAT DAD KNOWS HOW TO TAKE CARE OF HIMSELF I'D BE WORRIED TO DEATH! JUST THE SAME I'M NOT FEELING ANY TOO EASY ABOUT HIM.
BUDDY, THE OLD PROVISION BOX IS WELL NIGH EMPTY. WE'LL HAVE TO GO SLOW WITH WHAT WE EAT FOR A WHILE!
MAY - - MAYBE WE SHOULDN'T HAVE GIVEN SO MUCH TO JIMMY AND HIS MOTHER!
BUT I WAS SO SURE DAD WOULD BE HOME BY NOW!
ANYHOW, I GUESS THEY NEEDED WHAT WE LET THEM HAVE A SIGHT WORSE THAN WE DID.
OH, I DON'T BEGRUDGE WHAT WE GAVE THEM FOR A SECOND. I JUST HATE TO SEE YOU AND DONNIE NOT GET ENOUGH TO EAT.
SHUCKS! WE EAT TOO MUCH AS IT IS. IT WON'T HURT US TO PULL IN OUR BELTS A LITTLE BIT.

Congress Wary of Granting More Assistance to Finns

SOLONS FEAR INJURING U. S. NEUTRAL STAND

Bills Propose Cancellation Of War Debt, Sale of Army Rifles.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Congress seemed disposed today to approach Finnish aid proposals with as much, if not more, caution than is being displayed with respect to huge defense expenditures.

Fear of possible violation of American neutrality dominated the apparent reaction in both parties to President Roosevelt's suggestion that the law-makers work out legislation, in a spirit of non-partisanship, to give the little Baltic republic financial assistance.

Republicans contended it was the responsibility of the chief executive to initiate a specific plan.

Both house and senate were in recess today until Monday following house passage yesterday of the first appropriation bill of the session. This was a deficiency measure providing $264,611,252 for increases made during the current fiscal year, which ends June 30, in the army, navy, coast guard, anti-spy and neutrality patrol personnel. These increases were ordered by Mr. Roosevelt under an emergency proclamation issued after the war broke out in Europe last September.

Hit New Navy Building.

This bill will be considered by the senate appropriations committee next week. About the same time a senate appropriations subcommittee under the chairmanship of Senator Byrnes (D., S. C.) will start an inquiry to determine whether the navy is spending existing funds wisely, in the light of experiences in the present conflict abroad.

Considerable opposition to appropriating the $1,800,000,000 which the president has recommended for defense in the next fiscal year, beginning July 1, has been expressed in both houses. This attitude on the part of several legislators has been even more emphatic with respect to the Vinson bill, which would authorize—but not actually appropriate for—another $1,300,000,000 of naval building.

Committee action on half a dozen pending bills to authorize loans and other support for Finland will await reports on them from the state and treasury departments and the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Bills so far introduced provide for a $60,000,000 loan, refunding the Finnish debt to this country, sale of the army's new Garand semi-automatic rifles to Finland at $1 each, and cancelling the republic's World-war obligation to the United States as of Dec. 1, with return of its Dec. 15 payment.

Husband and Wife To Take Leads In Players' Comedy

For the first time in their history, the Mansfield Community Players will present a play in which two leading characters are husband and wife in private life.

The Players' next production will be Fredrick Lonsdale's sophisticated comedy, "On Approval," which will be given at Senior high school auditorium Jan. 30.

There are only four characters in the play and all are "leads." Two will be played by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Schettler, both of whom are familiar to Players' audiences, and the other two roles will be handled by Mrs. Jack Berno, who made her debut last month in "The Night of Jan. 16," and John Catlett, Mansfield attorney. Catlett will make his debut with the Players in this production.

There are two scenes to "On Approval." It opens in London and then moves to a hunting lodge in Scotland. The story is built around two very selfish persons who decided to live in the same house "on approval" pending their marriage.

The comedy will be directed by Ben Goodenough, assistant director of the Players for the past two years. Harold Mell, director of the Children's Theater, will design and build the sets.

Up and Down THE STREET

Firemen at Central station are going on a boating party tomorrow but it isn't the kind of boating party that you would ordinarily venture on. It's to be ice boating. Fireman Clarence Lurz and his nephew, Sherwood Humbert, were putting the finishing touches on the huge sailboat in the workshop at the station today and tomorrow they take it to Charles Mill dam for a tryout.

The elderly man who took a most unusual way to cross the icy intersection at Fourth and Mulberry last evening, took a far greater chance on his life than if he had walked cautiously. He got down on his hands and knees and crawled across one of the busiest traffic intersections in the city. After he completed his journey he got up unconcernedly, brushed off his trousers and went on.

Then there was the Douglas street resident who had an extra reason for feeling better with the rise of temperature this week. As he climbed into his car, Wednesday, a 50-cent piece slipped unnoticed from his pocket into the deep snow. Later he discovered that the coin was missing and made a good guess on where he had lost it, but surmised that finding it would be a hopeless task. Came the thaw yesterday he climbed out of his automobile in front of his home and there in the sodden slush lay his half a buck.

With his reputation as a basketball coach mounting steadily, Clair Bee, former Mansfield high mentor, has been the subject of numerous articles in nationally-known publications. Bee was "written up" by Collier's a few weeks ago and this month he is the subject of a lengthy article in the American magazine. In the story, "The Bee in Basketball," Bee is revealed as the busiest man in New York. In addition to his basketball duties at Long Island university, he coaches football, baseball, track, wrestling, golf, tennis, rifle and chess. He is head of the accounting and physical education departments, athletic manager, school accountant and one-man publicity department.

DENIES CHARGE

Union Head Accused of Taking Money From Ford Officials.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — House Investigators of the National Labor Relations Board invited Homer Martin, president of the AFL faction of the United Automobile Workers union, today to discuss "at the proper time" an affidavit asserting that he had admitted receiving money from Ford Motor company officials.

The affidavit, by Harry A. (Red) Elder, former St. Louis UAW official, was read into the house labor board committee's record late yesterday, and denied immediately by Martin and Harry Bennett, Ford personnel director.

Martin said the charges in the affidavit were lies "too big to be believed by any candid person," and sent a long telegram to House Committee Counsel Edmund M. Toland attacking Elder's veracity.

SEWAGE PLANT BACK AT PEAK

Entire Load Given Full Treatment In December Despite Mechanical Failure.

Despite a mechanical failure which resulted in a shutdown of part of the equipment for repairs, the municipal sewage treatment plant operated at almost perfection during December, the monthly report of operations submitted to city council today by Plant Superintendent James R. Turner revealed.

Turner reported that 100 per cent of all sewage entering the plant last month was given full treatment as compared with 98 per cent in November.

It also showed that sewage given full treatment had a purification percentage of 90 per cent, a seven per cent decrease from the previous month.

A total of 78 million gallons of sewage entered in the plant in December and although one of the air blowers was shut down for repairs, the entire amount was fully treated, Turner said.

Turner said the air equipment had been in continuous operation since the plant was placed in operation nearly three years ago and was in need of overhauling.

He pointed out the need for additional air equipment and said that had the breakdown come during the summer months when the load on the plant is heavier, it would have been necessary to bypass a considerable amount of sewage.

Total cost of operation at the plant last month was $2,551, an increase of about $500. Turner reported, due to the blower repairs and the purchase of additional repair parts.

ILL 6 WEEKS, DIES

Infant Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Paul Kurtz Stricken.

Diane Loree Kurtz, three-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Paul Kurtz, 14 Swanger avenue, died at the home last evening after an illness of six weeks. Her parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Kurtz of Mansfield and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice E. Miller of West Salem, survive.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held at 3 p. m. Sunday with Rev. Grover E. Swoyer of the First Lutheran church officiating. Burial will be in the I. O. O. F. cemetery at Lucas.

COUNTY'S RELIEF BILLS GO UP $545 IN DECEMBER, HIT $9,938

Direct relief costs in Richland county, exclusive of Shelby, totaled $9,938 in December, an increase of $545 over the previous month, Relief Director J. Verne Finney reported today.

The increase was in the county area which spent $4,260 to provide food, clothing and fuel for 96 families during the month. The November expenditures totaled $3,706.

Mansfield's relief expenditures dropped $8 during the month, $5,677 being spent to care for 201 indigent families. The cost in November was $5,685.

Finney attributed the major portion of the increase to the greater demand for clothing and fuel brought about by colder weather.

The report listed $3,500 as the total administrative and non-administrative costs, $2,214 of which was charged to the county and $1,286 to the city.

More than 10 tons of surplus commodities purchased from the Federal Surplus Commodity corporation were distributed to relief clients during the month. These included flour, beans, apples and rolled oats.

The report also showed that 148 persons were assigned to WPA projects in the county in December while 157 were laid off due to the 18-month rule. The report said 600 persons are now employed on WPA in the county and that 312 have been certified and awaiting assignment.

During the month the housekeeping aid project cared for 115 families.

The WPA sewing project made and turned over to the relief office for distribution a total of 1,481 women's and children's garments with an estimated value of $587.

GETS JUDGMENT

Lumbermens Awarded $34,360 In Foreclosure Suit.

A foreclosure judgment for $34,360 involving the former Laverr Cleveland Glove company property on North Diamond street had been awarded the Lumbermans Mutual Insurance company today in common pleas court in an action against the defunct glove company.

The foreclosure order provides that unless the judgment is paid within five days, the property must be sold at sheriff's sale to pay the debt. The glove company ceased operations about six years ago and the building is now occupied by the Wagner Awning and Manufacturing company.

Included in the judgment is a $27,266 balance due on a loan, $3,311 for repairs to the building, $2,569 for taxes on the property, and $1,213 for insurance protection.

The Farmers Savings and Trust company, which claims an interest in the property on a loan made while the glove company was still operating, was named co-defendant in the foreclosure suit.

RESIDENTS URGE SCHOOL REPAIRS

Property Owners Also Score Lincoln Heights Overcrowding.

A resolution calling for necessary repairs to the Lincoln Heights school building was adopted by Lincoln and Coolridge Heights property owners at a meeting at the school last night.

The resolution, to be presented to the Madison township school board, calls for repairs to the building and alleviation of the over crowded condition now said to exist.

A report of a new law now pending in regard to zoning communities was given by Earl Leininger, and the group also discussed the possibilities of a park site. H. A. McElhaney and Earl Leininger were appointed representatives to the Richland County Trustees and Clerks association for 1940.

NEW LINERS TO BE POTENTIAL WAR WEAPONS

Bids Asked on Luxury Boats; Will Ply Pacific In Peacetime.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The Maritime Commission is nearly ready today to ask for bids on two passenger liners which officials said could be converted quickly into naval airplane carriers.

Commission officials claimed that virtually every essential feature of aircraft carrier design, including funnels at the side of the ship, will be incorporated into construction of the liners, which will be used in the trans-Pacific passenger trade.

However, they said, the ships will not be fitte dwith armorplating that protects existing aircraft carriers. They explained that if the ships ever are used as plane carriers they will rely on speed and on accompanying warcraft for protection.

One Commission official said that the ships would not be naval auxiliaries, but actual men-of-war.

Earn In Peacetime.

"Whereas a warship is a complete economic loss," he said, "these ships, while operating as luxury liners, will be earning money."

The unique vessels, of 35,000 gross tons each, will be the largest ever built for commercial use in the United States and larger than any of this country's existing naval aircraft carriers. Bids for construction will be invited within the next few weeks.

Quick Change To Fighters.

Naval architects participated in preparation of the plans. They have made such complete provision for national defense features that officials estimated it would be possible to convert the ships into aircraft carriers in about a week. Experts said the ships could carry between 60 and 70 fighting planes each.

According to present plans, the ships probably will be sold to the American President lines which operate a round-the-world and trans-Pacific service. The Commission will pay for the national defense features of the construction.

Not That It Matters

We Stand to Lose Out If Block Booking Ban Passes Congress, Becomes Law

—By JANE WILLIAMS

MOST of the people who drop into the movies once or twice a week for entertainment are little concerned with the policies of the picture industry. Which is one reason why so few people know anything about the Neely bill which comes before this session of congress and which is of the utmost importance to you and to me.

The bill is intended to prohibit "compulsory block booking" of pictures." It is sponsored by the independent exhibitors of the country and opposed by the big producers.

It is important to you and me because the passage of the bill will in all likelihood boost the price of picture shows and, even more important, we movie followers in the smaller cities will have little chance of seeing such films as "Romeo and Juliet" and "Pygmalion," but will get more of "Last Gangster," "Jungle Love," "Alcatraz," and "They Gave Him a Gun."

And the funny—but very human—angle of it is, that the bill may pass because Washington solons were burned to a crisp over "Mr. Smith Goes To Washington" and would like to take a slap at the industry.

THOSE who oppose block booking say they are forced to buy and exhibit pictures they don't like in order to get the ones they do like. That is only partially true. Every contract has a 10 per cent cancellation clause which permits an exhibitor to cancel 10 per cent of a producing company's product, so that if he doesn't think a picture is good for his town's morals, he can cancel it. The funny part of it is, there are few cancellations on Mae West comedies or killer-dillers, while such pictures as "Quality Street," "Winterset," "Romeo and Juliet" have big cancellation figures.

But what annoys me about the darned bill is that if it passes the theater manager will be acting as my censor and will bring in only such pictures HE wants me to see, and then, too, most of us feel that the government already is regulating private business to an alarming extent.

IF ALL of those stories of the Finns wiping out whole Russian regiments at one crack are true, Mr. Hitler must be pretty sick. He needed country for expansion for his crowded millions and he chose to buck England and France to get it. Yet right at his back door on the eastern front stretched the vast lands of Russia, millions of acres unclaimed.

And now he knows that those acres were guarded only by feather soldiers and armaments that he, with his superior forces, conceivably could have taken at one clear-cut stroke. In fact, it begins to look a little as if tiny Finland might take over Russia if the winter holds out long enough.

And how VERY ill he must be at seeing his only ally, his big Goliath, take a kicking around from a little David.

BUT if Mr. Hitler is suffering from bad judgment, think how complacent Col. Lindbergh must feel. Remember how all of Great Britain called its wrath down on his head because, after his visit to Russia, he said that her airplanes and other fighting equipment were inferior, and her airmen and fighters were not very well trained?

People will never learn that their opinions aren't the last word, and that the other fellow may know what he is talking about, too.

WITH the death of Rufus H. King this week, I lost one of my staunchest followers and best contributors. Many of the paragraphs in this column in the past ten years were suggestions made by "Judy" King. He never got over being a newspaperman at heart and he seldom failed me when I made a frantic call at his office and said "I just GOTTA have a news story or up-and-down-the-street paragraph."

We didn't agree on so many subjects—mostly politics—and it was a dull meeting when we couldn't think of something to argue about. But the day was always a little brighter for those arguments. I liked him best for his innate friendliness, his sincerity and lack of pretense.

I think I'll put Rufus in my memory's album, right across the page from the late "Tim" Roberts. I have a sort of childish hunch those two old friends are talking things over right now.

AM I SLIPPING? Whenever I make a mistake in these columns or in any story appearing under my by-line, I always get the impression that everyone in Mansfield and surrounding territory saw the error and hastened to correct me. But in my Jan. 1 Leap Year story and directory of Mansfield's bachelors, I confused the Webster boys and had Daniel authoring the dictionary instead of Noah. And not a person mentioned it to me until yesterday.

Or maybe no one knew it was an error except the minister who mentioned it.

FAIR ENOUGH!

U. S. System of Unions Creates Power But No Way of Halting Abuses

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—A big meeting of the union of variety artists was momentarily upset by cries of "Throw him out!" evoked by a simple request by a member for an accounting.

Chairs were pushed back, and, according to the New York World-Telegram's account, "a brawl seemed imminent" until a union officer, sighting a microphone which was not in use at the moment, cried, "Nobody is going to be thrown out,' and calmed the storm.

The incident points to a serious weakness in organized labor in both of the big houses.

In a day when more and more groups of workers, unfamiliar with union procedure, are being organized under pressure of the bitter competition between the CIO and the A. F. of L., intimidation of the rank and file and assumption of power by enterprising unioneers present a serious peril to the freedom of the workers, individually and in the mass.

Union meetings are supposed to be parliaments, but union discipline and character are such that individuals, arising to speak in opposition to the policies of the officers or a minority of planted hecklers or thugs, are put in fear of humiliation, at least, and injury, expulsion or death in certain types of unions.

The pattern closely resembles that of our civil government and politics, with the important difference, however, that the big unions have nothing corresponding to the department of justice, the police or even the county prosecutors to preserve the purity of the ballot and the rights of the members.

The union system creates great power, but provides no means to prevent or punish abuse of power.

The rank-and-file sucker is easily bowled down, and, unless he has the peculiar gall of the born wind-jammer, he sits quiet while his rights are voted away.

Inexperienced, unacquainted and, to use the proper word, bashful thousands of newly organized workers invite exploitation by predatory unioneers as harmful as exploitation by the most brutal employers and violence no different from that inflicted in the bad old days by the mercenary agency guards and strikebreakers.

If the big union organizations can't protect the members from their own unions, there is a power that can and eventually will be forced to.

TELL BILL GOODBYE + + + + + +

By MARIE BLIZARD

(Copyright, 1939.)

CHAPTER FORTY-SIX

CHRIS WAS startled by Fabienne's stormy entrance and alarm spread over her face.

Fabienne was wiping her face with a towel, tucking her uncurled hair under her hat, fastening the collar of her coat under her chin. "Have you got a pencil and paper in your handbag, Chris?" she asked excitedly.

Chris said she thought she had, and tumbled it's contents on the blanket. A roll of banknotes, a crumpled handkerchief, a ring of keys, a jeweled compact and a lip-stick fell out. She shook her head.

"Can you imagine not having even a piece of paper and a pencil?" Fabienne said. She tore a piece off an old charcoal bag. "Give me your lipstick, Chris."

Silently, Chris handed it over. "Wh—what are you doing, Fab?"

"I think I've found a way to get out of this jam without bringing the police down on our necks. Do you feel equal to keeping things going until I get back?"

"Yes. What are you going to do?"

"I'll tell you when it works. IF it does!" Fabienne flung over her shoulder.

It was easier walking on the firm snow, pressed down by the plow. She was glad now that Chris hadn't wakened her when the plow went through. If she'd known it was there, she would have asked for a ride on it, gone into the village and telephoned to Bill.

Only now did she realize the folly of that. The police would be watching Ellen and Bill and Nicky, having surely discovered that they were her friends, and the first with whom she would communicate.

Oh, yes, this was far the better way, if only it would work. It was an inspiration! It had to work!

The other way she would have got Bill into the jam and she would have regretted that more than any other thing in this whole nightmare. What would Bill and Ellen think of her now, she wondered, trudging on over the snow in the erie half-light of morning. It was only seven o'clock and the world was asleep. Every muscle, every nerve in her cried out for the comfort that she believed Ellen was enjoying at that moment.

Seven o'clock struck on the chimes of the grandfather clock in Ellen's apartment. She rose from the divan on which she had been keeping watch since midnight beside the radio.

She slipped her feet into felt slippers and went into the kitchen to fix breakfast for Bill.

He appeared at the door of Fabienne's room, rubbing sleep from his eyes as she came back. "Anything yet?" he asked.

She shook her head. "Nothing but the milkman's serenade."

"You'd better catch some sleep. I can stay until nine."

"Nicky's coming at nine. He'll stay until I've had a sleep. Then he'll come back tonight."

"I'll take the watch tonight. Sorry I popped off that way, youngster. I'd been up all night the night before with a couple of accident cases after I left here."

"That's all right, Bill. I couldn't sleep anyway. Surely something will break today!"

"Sure!"

They didn't look at each other. Bill turned the dials up.

A man's voice, unbearably cheerful, said, "We'll start the day with a rousing song."

"Shut it off, Bill," Ellen told him. "There isn't any news until eight. I think I'll go crazy if I have to listen to any more cheerful voices. Do you suppose it's too early to call Maryland again?"

"Not much point to it. Willoughby said he'd ring up if there was any news."

"I can't believe it, Bill!" It's Fabienne who's been kidnaped! She'd never do a thing like that!"

"I know," he said soothingly. "Finish that breakfast and get in there to bed."

Ellen didn't want to go to sleep. She wanted to talk to Bill. But they'd been talking for two nights and there was nothing more to say. They'd talked to the police, to the federal men and to Larry Parsons, who was nearly out of his mind—as they all were. Three ghosts of people, with eyes dark from lack of sleep and hearts heavy with anxiety.

"How in the name of heaven could the earth open up and swallow three people?" Ellen wailed.

"They aren't swallowed. They're hiding some place."

"Hiding! There isn't any place for them to hide."

"Now, now, Ellen, you know that you could hide right here in New York, if you wanted to."

"Maybe I could. But Fabienne and Mrs. Parsons and a sick child can't! Oh, Bill, I don't believe that those three went off alone. Maybe the elevator boy who told that fantastic story about Fabienne's saying that you had discharged the child is one of the gang that kidnaped them."

"Why should anyone kidnap Fabienne?"

"Because they probably think she's got a lot of her grandfather's money."

"If it were a kidnaping of that kind, Ellen, there'd have been some word from the kidnapers demanding ransom."

"Bill, I . . . I'm ill from this."

"I don't feel any too good about it myself," he said, lighting a cigaret from the end of the old one which had burned down to his fingers without his even smoking it.

Ellen gave him a glance of understanding and pity. "I know, Bill. It's pretty tough for you. You care a lot about her, don't you?"

"First time it ever hit me that way," he said, not looking up.

"I've got a hunch that if Fab could get in touch with anyone, it would be you, Bill."

"I hope so," he said quietly. "She knows she can depend on me."

"That was a pretty fine thing you did at the hospital. It might have got you in trouble."

"What if it did? Can you think of any trouble worse than this?"

"No," she said sadly, and went off, leaving him beside the telephone and radio.

At twenty minutes past seven he went to the door of her room.

"Asleep, Ellen?" he called softly.

"No," she answered immediately, and came to the door. "Any news?"

"No, but I just had a crazy idea."

"No idea could be crazier than this silence. What is it, Bill?"

"If the elevator boy was telling the truth, and if Fab did sneak the kid out with his mother, you can depend that Fab was in charge of the situation. I met the mother and she's a hay-wire blonde if ever I saw one—"

Ellen shook her head sadly. "But Fabienne didn't 'sneak' the child out, Bill! I've been trying to tell you that all day."

"But suppose she did?" Bill persisted. "And suppose she wanted to find some place to hide? What about my place in Stepney?"

Ellen considered it and then she shook her head again, sadly. "Fabienne's got too much sense. She wouldn't let a convalscent child be taken up to a place where there was neither heat nor water, Bill. Use your head."

Bill allowed that there was sense in that, but, for the moment, it had seemed like a possible idea.

APPEALS COURT HEARS 3 CASES

Railroad's Fight With Farmer Over Dam to Come Before Tribunal Tuesday.

Only three cases are scheduled to come before the Fifth district appeals court when it convenes in Mansfield Tuesday for the January term of court, C. A. McKinley, court assignment clerk, said today.

One of the cases involves an appeal by the Pennsylvania Railroad company from a common pleas court order to remove a dam from a stream on Jacob Leuthner's farm east of Mansfield.

The lower court ruled that the dam caused the stream to overflow and damage Leuthner's property. The dam provides a water supply for locomotives.

The court will hear the appeal of Harry J. Appleman to recover property from the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank as trustee. Appleman failed to win an order for recovery in common pleas court. He is represented by Attys. R. W. Stephenson and John F. Kramer and the bank by Attys. William F. Voegele, R. E. Hutchison and L. V. Stillwell.

The third case involves a dispute over the guardianship of Robert Gurney and others. The case was appealed from probate and common pleas court decisions. Attys. Lewis Brucker and H. M. Rust will submit evidence for Fred Munz, the appellant, and Atty. John C. O'Donnell will represent the Maryland Casualty company, the appellee.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, JANUARY 13, 1940.

Drive carefully tomorrow—and keep in mind the extra hazards of icy pavements.

In Finland a steam bath is followed immediately by a plunge into a snowdrift—which may explain several things.

The problem of government, as usual, is how to spend more money without increasing the public debt or assessing more taxes—and it's a nice trick, if you can do it.

Social Security Becomes Effective

WHILE many things remain to be corrected in the Social Security law, which became effective the first of this year, the fact remains that some such form of assuring a continuance of moderate income for workers after retirement at the age of 65, is in quite general accord with present-day thinking.

First mailing and delivery of checks to approximately one million beneficiaries is expected by February 1, with monthly payments thereafter.

A serious weakness of the present method of accumulating an immense reserve from assessments on workers and employers is that much of this money has been invested in government bonds, and goes into the federal treasury, where it can be spent for other purposes instead of being set aside for social security payments in the future.

The idea of social security for elderly retired workers has been developing for a number of years and has had the indorsement of both political parties, the only differences having been as to methods by which it can be best administered and kept on a sound financial footing.

Many economists have expressed belief that the present system is unwieldy and may prove unworkable. It would seem, however, if the problems now presented are approached in a serious and non-partisan way they can be satisfactorily solved and the benefits of social security eventually expanded to make provision for all persons who have devoted their productive years to some form of necessary work without accumulating a surplus sufficient to carry them through a non-earning period in later life.

In order to accomplish this it will be necessary to plan ahead, both in the accumulation and safeguarding of funds, so that, in the main, the reserve from each individual's earnings will provide a large percentage of the deferred payments, with the federal government serving in an administrative capacity rather than as a provider of pensions through higher taxes or increased deficits.

Warn Children Against Danger

THE criminal case just completed in common pleas court, in which a Richland county man was convicted for sex offenses in which young girls were the victims, serves to again emphasize the need for constant watchfulness in every community, so that women and children—boys as well as girls—can be protected against the various types of degenerates which appear from time to time, occasionally in the most unexpected places.

In this instance, as has occurred sometimes in the past, the offender called at a school from which he attempted to take a young girl on the pretext that her mother had been injured. There should be very general understanding among children, and those in whose charge they are placed, that under no circumstances are they to accompany a stranger from school, accept offers of automobile rides from strangers, or fall victims of any other lure that may be presented.

There would also be an advantage in training young girls and boys to report any such advances to parents or teachers, so that precautions can be taken before intended offenses are committed.

Difficulties of Distribution

THERE'S nothing new about the story of people who wait until the last minute before ordering something they need—and then insisting on quick delivery, regardless of inconvenience to others.

This time is was a tired coal man who asked, wearily, why people who ought to expect cold weather in January went along through a mild autumn with small orders, waiting till the thermometer was down around zero before placing a large order with a demand that it be delivered the same day.

"Have they no mercy," he asked, "for the men on the truck, who may have to work long into the night to make emergency deliveries to people who could have had their coal delivered easily, without delay, anytime during a month of comfortable temperatures."

Professors use long words in telling about the causes of failure of the processes of distribution in a democracy—but no longer word than negligence is needed to explain at least one fault. Along with the benefits of a democracy are duties—and one of the main lubricants of democratic processes of all kinds is consideration for other people.

Our Relations With Australia

AMERICANS are pleased by announcements from Washington and Canberra establishing direct diplomatic relations between the United States and Australia. Both countries will soon be sending and welcoming ministers to transact mutual business, instead of clearing it through London as has been done heretofore.

It is the same direct procedure that has already been established between the United States government and the governments of Canada and South Africa. The only British dominion still without independent representation at Washington is New Zealand, which is much smaller in population and in many ways of less importance.

Here is another evidence of the rapidity with which outlying members of the British Empire are growing up and the readiness with which the Mother Country relaxes her authority over them, as they mature.

Non-Partisan Budgeting

SENATOR PAT HARRISON has suggested an independent congressional committee for inquiry into the national budget. Last May, it is recalled, Treasury Secretary Morgenthau made the same suggestion to the house ways and means committee. He recommended it as a permanent reform of budgetary procedure.

Eventually, no doubt, something of the sort will be worked out. If it is a really independent committee, made up of competent men, and if its findings are honest, penetrating and sound, and if administrations and congresses heed them in handling federal finances, it will indeed be a reform. It may put the nation's business on a footing secure and well outside of politics, log-rolling and other non-mathematical influences.

WAITING FOR HIS SHIP TO COME IN

Listen, World!

Does It Pay To Help People?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

DOES it pay to help people? That depends on the kind of help—

I am sure that much of our so-called "help" is extremely harmful, and that, with all our highly organized charity, we often omit the most vital sort of assistance.

There's one sort of help we nearly always fail to give, yet it should come first of all—FAITH.

We give people food, clothes and money and endless advice—we find jobs and homes for them, but how often do we make them feel that we have any faith in them?

How often do we do reverence to that pride, that self-respect, which cries for recognition in even the most degraded human heart?

How often do we preface our charitable act by the decent statement—"I believe in you."

That's one sort of help which we don't give, yet I'm sure that it's the potent and necessary form of help. For the greatest rehabilitary force in any human being's life is his pride. His pride needs recognition before his body needs clothes or his purse needs money. And even though you give clothes and money, if you have left that pride naked and in the dust you have wasted your charity.

Does it pay to give advice?

I've had a good deal of experience upon which to base my answer to that question. I have been giving both written and oral advice for many years in the course of my work. Very often that advice has been supplemented by personal co-operation which has lasted over weeks or years. And yet I doubt if one person out of a thousand can be helped by advice.

Most people want advice and request it with every evidence of sincerity. There are many reasons for this. An advice-getting orgy is most gratifying to the egotism, equally, of advisee and adviser.

It is also a stimulating and exciting way of spending one's time and emotion. But having received the advice, most of us fall right back into the same old rut. For it isn't advice we need. It's a new set of vertebrae. And maybe a funnybone.

Does it pay to give sympathy in the usual sense of condolence? Only in the small doses. Such sympathy is a drug. It may be wisely used to elevate the worst pang of suffering, but it can only relieve—it won't cure. Sooner or later the sufferer must buck up and face the situation—perform an operation on his life or cleanse it of its infection. Prolonged sympathy won't help him in this task. It will only weaken him. Believe in a man, but show him that you feel he can make good. Don't be sorry for him or help him to be sorry for himself.

There's another kind of sympathy which really is a spiritual partnership. You can't give too much of that.

Does it pay to give money?

I don't know what your experience has been in this respect, but mine has been about 99 per cent BAD. I'm one of those people who like to give money. There's nothing honorable about that. There's really a selfish pleasure in it for me. I'd like to imagine that I'm doing people lots of good.

But I have come to realize most reluctantly, that I'm doing no such thing. In the vast majority of cases the money does no good whatever, and the needy one is harmed more than helped by such financial interference.

The thing that landed him in his plight was not really lack of money. It was laziness, or greediness, or egotism, or some other form of human cussedness, and he'll never get out of his plight until he wins the fight over the thing that is defeating him. In most cases money simply interferes with that fight.

After all, the good old maxim held a lot of wisdom. "Help a man to help himself"—that's the only kind of help that counts.

Health And Diet

Glands That Mold The Adolescent.

—By DR. CLENDENING

THE endocrine glands, which consist of the thyroid gland in the neck, the pituitary gland in the head, the adrenals, the pancreatic cells of internal secretion, and the reproductive glands, are, with the exception of the pancreatic glands, rather small in infancy and early childhood.

At the period of adolescence, when rapid growth begins, they also take on an accelerated development. The thyroid gland increases nearly three times in weight between the ages of 10 and 15. So probably does the pituitary gland. The reproductive glands, of course, show the most striking evidence of activity; in fact, this activity conditions the entire life and mental outlook of the adolescent. But the thymus gland, which is in the chest, at this time practically disappears.

Concerned With Growth.

All these changes are concerned with growth. The pituitary, thyroid and reproductive glands especially have an influence over growth in heighth. The pituitary and reproductive glands are entirely concerned with the development of maturity.

It is axiomatic in physiology that when unusual and active growth occurs, it does not always stay under control. The activity of the endocrine glands in adolescence, therefore, may be exaggerated and in rare instances their activity may be reduced.

In the case of the tyroid gland, overgrowth or overactivity can easily be seen as an enlargement at the base of the neck. Certain communities are called "goiter communities," and in these regions this adolescent enlargement may be seen in a very large proportion of the population. Preventive measures in these communities have been adopted for some time.

Problem Created.

All of these disturbances and changes create a psychological problem, of which every parent and school teacher is aware. I do not intend to go into the psychology of the adolescent here. It is too large a subject and I am not sure that I have any wisdom on the subject. To take care of an adolescent boy or girl who is in trouble is a life-sized problem.

Remember, however, you parents and teachers who deal with these children, that certain parts of their personality may entirely lag behind other phases of their development.

I have before me the specific record of a boy whose chronological age is between 13 and 14; his anatomical age is between 15 and 16; his physiological age is between 13 and 14; his mental age is between 16 and 17; his emotional age is between 7 and 8, and his social age is between 10 and 11. With such immaturity, it is easy to see that we are up against a real problem.

As Others See It

Optimistic.

Summary of Week's Happenings

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE PRESIDENT can make treaties, the Constitution says, "by and with the advice and consent of the senate." The tariff-lowering horse trades that Secretary of State Hull has been making with other countries, without consulting Capitol Hill each time, therefore are called, not treaties, but just agreements.

Nineteen such agreements now are in force between the U. S. and nations with which this country does more than half of its foreign business. The 1934 law under which those pacts might be renewed, or others concluded, expires June 12. Administration insistence on its extension promises one of the liveliest battles in this third session of the 76th Congress.

Pro and Con.

Critics of the reciprocal trade agreements program — including most Republican congressmen, many farm-state Democrats, and now the AFL's spokesmen on tariff matters — say the pacts let cheap foreign goods onto American markets, depressing prices and living standards. That wouldn't happen, they argue, if each agreement had to pass muster in the senate.

Secretary Hull, backed by Mr. Roosevelt, defends the program as an instrument for world peace and prosperity. Anyway, he contends, it has stimulated U. S. exports while boosting imports of goods that, for the most part, don't compete with home products. To require that the senate ratify each pact, he feels, might result in sectional log-rolling.

This week, before house committee hearings on a bill to extend the Trade Agreements Act three years, Secretary Hull reargued his case. His assurance that the government was "not exposing domestic producers to material injury" was underlined by the termination of negotiations with Argentina and Uruguay because, the state department announced, of disagreement on U. S. import quotas for their farm products.

Defense Discussed.

The house has even fewer privileges all its own than the senate. One is its right to originate "all bills for raising revenue." House leaders were cool, therefore, toward a senate proposal for a joint 24-man committee to study the president's budget and write its own.

The house appropriations committee, meanwhile: (1) okayed a presidential request for $267,000,000 this fiscal year to pay for emergency defense work by the army, navy, coast guard and FBI; (2) instructed its subcommittee to stay within Mr. Roosevelt's estimates.

At Home

Miners Trapped.

Ninety-one lives were feared lost in West Virginia's worst mine disaster in a decade when rescue crews failed to reach miners trapped by an explosion at Bartley, W. Va., Wednesday.

By yesterday afternoon 21 bodies had been found and efforts were continued in hope of finding some of the men still alive.

NLRB Probe.

Five congressmen assigned to find out how the NLRB is doing, and whether the Wagner Act needs amending, heard testimony this week intended to show that the board had entrusted important work to inexperienced, over-enthusiastic youngsters: A woman employed as an attorney testified she had never practiced law privately. A field examiner had been given a raise, the investigators heard, after admitting he was "working for the CIO."

The investigators, meanwhile, fell to squabbling among themselves: One called the probe unfair and one-sided, and another accused him of letting the board's lawyer hamper the inquiry.

Falling Behind.

An estimated 250,000 shops and factories are subject to the federal law fixing minimum wages in interstate industry at 30 cents an hour, with time-and-a-half after 42 hours a week. And complaints that some employer has failed to meet those standards are averaging one every 10 minutes—which is four times as fast as the Wage-Hour Administration can investigate them. So that agency reported this week to congress, adding that it planned to increase its field staff from 290 to 700 by June.

Information, Please.

The Census Bureau estimates there are 132,000,000 Americans; soon it will know for sure: On April 1 an army of 121,000 door-bell-ringers will start popping questions to family heads, householders, businessmen and farmers. The answers will give Uncle Sam the most complete picture ever painted of his people and how they live. Estimated cost of the count: less than half a cent per nose.

Abroad

Freedom's Price.

Filipinos began paying this month for the political freedom they are to achieve six years from now. Price: quotas on the amount of duty-free exports they can send to the U. S. Each year the quotas will shrink until, in 1946, all American imports from the Philippines will be taxed full rate.

In the West.

Europe's main war flared up this week at sea and in the air. Berlin claimed eight British boats sunk by planes (London said one British, two Danish) the same day a mine broke an English steamer in half. Britons then raided German bases—and, Nazis reported, lost three (London said one) of nine fast new bombers.

In the Far East.

That other war—Japan's campaign to establish a "new order" in China—was 30 months old this week. And Tokyo newsmen reported Nipponese home fires giving off more smoke than heat. Food costs had jumped 130% in 18 months, and even rice was scarce. In off-the-record whispers, Japanese civilians confided they were sick of the war and would be thankful for any peace their leaders could patch up.

Politics

Jackson Dinners.

Eleven hundred Democrats paid $100 apiece for a $5 dinner (filet mignon and fixin's, with two wines) in Washington last Monday night. The profit helped lift their party out of the red, and line its war chest for this year's campaign. The occasion: 125th anniversary of Andrew Jackson's victory over the British at New Orleans. Chief attraction: a "plate-side chat" by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Jackson day dinners, at $25 a plate, or less were held in a number of other cities, but in Louisiana, scene of Jackson's victory, no dinner was held because of the "unsettled political picture."

Primary Primary.

The year gets under way politically with party primaries in Louisiana this coming Tuesday. Interest centers on the Democratic nomination for governor. Earl K. Long, Huey's brother, wants to keep the job, which he inherited when Gov. Richard Leche resigned last June just after the president of the state university was revealed as an embezzler. The man with the best chance to unseat him, politicians say, is Sam H. Jones, an outstate lawyer and American Legionnaire backed by New Orleans newspapers on a reform platform.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Here is some melancholy comedy for those who place importance on the pronouncements of film critics.

The other day the Manhattan film reviewers gathered to vote on the "best" film of the year. The purpose of this is to recognize real merit. If you are a critic you are supposed to know the bad from the good, and if you lend your name to such a selection you presumably want it to reflect some credit to your judgment.

There were some 13 critics gathered to debate this selection. Presumably they all had their minds made up before the voting began. On the first ballot "Mr. Smith Goes To Washington" and "Gone With The Wind" received the largest number of votes. But neither polled a two-thirds majority. So they argued and voted again, and argued some more, until more than a dozen polls had been taken.

IN THE end, most of the critics, who are supposed to have some courage with their convictions, surrendered their opinions and ran in "Wuthering Heights" as a dark horse. As this polled the two-thirds majority, the film critics then solemnly announced that "Wuthering Heights" was the best movie of the year.

It seems to me that the New York film critics have paid a high price for their fun. Who, after this, will pay any attention to anything they have to say?

THIS little ditty is entitled "Going down Mt. Hovenberg at 80 miles an hour, or how to have fun in an abandoned railroad station at 3:30 o'clock in the morning."

It also explains those stiff joints Kay Kyser is toting around town these days. It seems that Kay and Ginny Simms were taken up to Lake Placid and crowned King and Queen of Winter. After being roundly feted, during which they were taken down the famous bobsled run by two of the four Stevens brothers, who are Olympic champions, Kay, Ginny, Hal Hackett (his manager), and Paul Mosher (his press agent), drove over to Westport, N. Y., to catch an early train for New York.

It was about 12 below zero. The King was slightly frost-bitten, and the Queen was breathing plumes of frost. As they waited for the train the station master came out and announced that the little matter of a wreck up above on the line somewhere, would delay matters a bit. "However," he added, "make yourselves comfortable. I got to go home."

So the station - master went home, and it was one o'clock in the morning, and the stove became cold. The Queen was in the waiting room, just waiting, but the King decided he had to have a little sleep. He stretched out on a hard table of a sort, with a cast-iron jack for a pillow. Two o'clock came, and the King groaned. Two-thirty came, and then three. Still no train. Finally, at 3:30, there was a splutter outside. Their Majesties broke out the ice-runners, cracked the icicles off their chins, and boarded a pine-knot burner for Manhattan.

"For some strange reason," murmured the King next day, "I feel a little stiff."

Gold Cake Tasty for Parties

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

FOR THAT next party or big occasion, how about a gold cake with a gold filling and a gold frosting? Florida Gold Cake is the sort of confection that casts a glow wherever it shines.

For the cake, use one and three-fourths cups flour, two teaspoons phosphate baking powder, one-half cup milk, one-half cup shortening, one cup sugar, one whole egg, four egg yolks, one-half cup milk and one-half teaspoon lemon extract. Sift flour, measure, sift again with baking powder and salt. Cream shortening well, add sugar gradually; cream until light and fluffy. Add slightly-beaten egg and the four egg yolks; beat, add flour alternately with milk, a little at a time, beating after each addition. Add flavoring. Bake in two greased layer-cake pans in 375 degree F. oven 25-30 minutes. When cool, spread orange filling between layers, and frost.

Orange Filling: Combine five tablespoons flour, one cup sugar, one-half cup orange juice, one-half cup water, one egg, two teaspoons butter, teaspoon grated orange rind. Cook in double boiler until thick (about 10 minutes), stirring constantly. Orange Butter Frosting: Blend two cups powdered sugar and four tablespoons butter. Add a bit of salt, one-fourth cup orange juice and one-half teaspoon grated orange rind. Beat, spread on cake.

Beige Parfait.

Beige is to be a fashionable spring color so why not a beige dessert? Beige Parfait is easily made, and it is an effective company dinner dessert. Boil together one cup freshly-made, double-strength coffee and one cup sugar for about 10 minutes. Beat four eggs slightly with a fork, then add the coffee syrup slowly beating constantly. Cook in a double boiler until mixture thickens, then cool. When cold, fold in one-half pint stiffly-beaten cream. Place in refrigerator trays and freeze for about six hours. Serves eight, so it is not an expensive dessert.

Apple Sherbet will decorate dinner, giving emphasis to a simple meal. Make it with one cup evaporated milk, two tablespoons lemon juice, two cups sweetened apple sauce, chilled, and a dash of nutmeg. Whip milk very stiff. Fold in lemon juice, apple sauce, and nutmeg. Pour at once into cold freezing trays. This will yield two pints.

Day Dreams Do Have Some Value

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
(Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage)

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

"Am I just kidding myself along, a foolish day-dreamer, when every action, almost every thought is directed toward a certain goal?

"I want to marry the only girl. She's just too wonderful to describe. I want to practice law. I've worked like the very d—— at night school and am almost ready to pass my bar exams. A house and an old-fashioned family of four or five kids is what I'd like to have to make me completely happy.

"To accomplish these things, I've been a janitor in an apartment house tending furnace and rustling ashes, I've worked in a chain grocery store, been a window washer — what have I not done since I graduated from high school with honors! When I'm blue, perhaps I feel I'm just kidding myself along. My girl and I have been engaged for three years.

NEARLY ALWAYS HOPEFUL."

Whether a person is just kidding himself along or planning constructively when he indulges in day-dreams depends upon the type of person he is. Kidding one's self or day-dreaming may be a blessing or a curse. It may be just so much dope that fills one with dreams of wish fulfillment and keeps one from facing stern realities. Or it may be a leg up the ladder.

If you belong to the school of wishful thinkers and have the grim determination to hold the thought, you'll have plenty of great names to bolster up your argument. If you're just dreaming with no resolution or drive behind it, you might see an unflattering reflection of yourself in the next bum you happen to meet.

Napoleon dreamed his dreams of being "head of the army," and put drive, even ruthlessness, back of his dreams. Lincoln, studying by the light of blazing logs, learned to write matchless English prose.

Susan Anthony, Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Lucretia Mott, the Quakeress, dreamed of women having freedom, going to college, getting jobs, doing away with unjust laws which bound them, such as not having the custody of their own children, or owning the money their fathers left them, or collecting their own wages—just another case of dreams come true.

How about Edison, and hundreds more? But to come down to everyday folk, there have been hundreds, thousands of young men who dreamed of having a college education and who blacked boots, washed dishes, waited on table, tutored, and turned out to be the best men their colleges produced.

Such a man was Henry Clay Folger who has given the finest Shakespearean collection in the world to the Folger Library, Washington, D. C. He put himself through college.

So it all sums up, my dear young man, to the amount of purpose you have in knowing what you want whether you are dreaming constructively or just kidding yourself along like a Weary Willie dreaming what he would be if there were any justice in this grim old world.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

DICKY grinned companionably at his niece.

"This is no place for a crude, crass man, Mary," he told her. "Besides, I haven't had my breakfast yet. I suppose you two have fed the little old faces, or haven't you?"

"Lillian made me eat with her in my room as soon as I wakened," I said. "But I don't think Mary has eaten."

"I'm not hungry yet," Mary said quickly. "I want to talk to Auntie Madge a minute or two before I go in to breakfast."

"I'll bet it will be ten at least," her uncle said. "Any takers?"

"Not one," I told him, smiling. "And—"

"Don't finish it, cruel Cassandra!" he adjured me. "You're trying to insinuate that every second I stick around here in delaying what ever game you and Mary have on hand. So—I fly!"

Mary gripped my shoulders as her uncle turned a corner and could no longer see us. Mary spoke in a murmur which, however, held palpable nervous tension.

"Can you tell me anything that happened? I mean, what the queen said or did?"

I took her hands from my shoulders and imprisoned them in mine.

"I think your troubles are over, child," I told her. "Queen Olga is going to tell your father-in-law this morning that she will marry him—that is, if he asks her again."

Mary wrenched her hands free and threw her arms around my neck.

"Whoop-ee!" she intoned softly. "You wonder worker! How did you manage it?"

"I don't know that I ever can tell you that particular thing, Mary," I said, with the stern resolve that never again should the story of Philip Veritzen's munificent gesture, which Queen Olga was forestalling, pass my lips, unless Philip himself, made it known.

"All right," Mary said. "I won't ask. It's sufficient for me that the deed is done. You're sure there won't be any slip-up? Olina can't spike the game?"

"'Yes' to the first question; 'no' to the last," I told her. "I think one of the reasons Queen Olga has decided to marry your father-in-law is because she thinks that, by so doing, she can enlist his aid in keeping Olina so occupied that she will have no time to bother about Noel. That's what I meant by saying your troubles are over."

"While Olina's are just beginning," Mary commented, and there was a note in her voice which faintly savored of gloating. "Well: I sure am not going to cry into my soup over that. But what about that harp business? What does her mother think about that?"

"She approves," I said. "She said if she secured a professional engagement later, it would occupy her mind and keep her out of mischief."

"Why! the old darling!" Mary exclaimed delightedly. "I could kiss her for that! I wonder when Olina means to tackle my respected papa-in-law about the harp."

"When he comes here this morning," I said, and then to clear up the mystery of Veritzen's contemplated visit, I told her of Olina's midnight telephone conversation with Philip Veritzen, her reference to something she couldn't do for him, her request to see him, and her insistence that his visit to her mother be a "surprise."

"So she wouldn't have time to primp," Mary commented cynically. "But you flagged that little scheme, I see. Isn't she the sweet darling, though? I hope my papa-in-law takes a bed slat to her about three times a week, and makes her go to bed with only bread and water for supper."

HOROSCOPE

BY GENEVIEVE KEMBLE.

Sunday's horoscope is a fairly auspicious one for all affairs of church and state that may be attuned to progressive and even revolutionary ideals. Old conventionalities seem to be under disturbing vibrations, with the feminine element taking an active part in innovations. Strangers figure in the day's friendships and doings.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a year in which strangers, new places and movements seem to hold determining place. Old and orthodox matters take a back seat in the progressive and revolutionary urges of the day. Elderly women and strangers hold conspicuous importance.

A child born on this day, while steady and easy-going, may have progressive ideas, with much originality and liberality of thought.

For Monday, January 15.

Monday's astrological forecast is a most propitious one, with every prospect of attaining the goal of heart's desire, whether in business, cultural aims, social prestige or romance. There is a likelihood of great activity toward any cherished objective, also much festivity or gratification in connection with a social or sentimental celebration.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a progressive, happy and prosperous year, with every realm of human aspiration attaining high culminations of gratification and success. Romance, social, domestic or cultural activities may be paramount.

A child born on this day may be bounteously endowed with those talents and graces that fit it for a high and happy station in life.

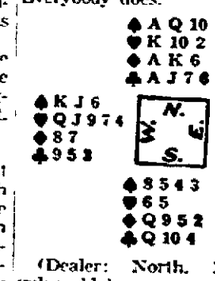
GRASP YOUR CHANCE

YOUR PROBLEM is not what you can do against perfect play by your opponents, but what you should do against the play they actually furnish. Don't say you never slip. Everybody does.



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable).

North bid 2-Clubs to open this deal. South 2-No Trumps and North 3-No Thumps, an enterprise which would have been doomed had South not shown up with a few dregs of strength.

West led his heart Q, which was covered by dummy's K and taken by the A. East returned the 8. West won with the J and then established the rest of the suit by leading to the heart 10. The declarer took three high diamonds, sent the club Q to East's K, the diamond J was cashed but after that the contract was safe. West's last two hearts were good, but he could never use them.

A player of more experience in West's place would have let the cummy win the second heart trick with the 10, in the hope that his partner had three. When East got in the lead later, he could have led to the heart J and West would have set the contract.

West's opportunity never should have come to him. A truly able declarer would not have covered the heart Q, lead, but would have let it win. If then the J was led, he would have covered; if a small heart, he would have played the 10. By this means he would have blocked the suit beyond peradventure of a doubt, and so would have made his contract regardless of anything the defenders could have done.

Monday's Problem.

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable).

Against South's 4-Hearts if West leads the spade Q and the K is played from dummy, how should East plan to defeat the contract?

THEATERS

WHEN the Japanese started dropping bombs on China, the only man in America who profited by it, so far as is known, was Peter Lorre, movie actor. Lorre, a really good actor and a comedian when he played in Europe, was cast in a series of Japanese detective plays, "Mr. Moto." The series made money, but threatened to ruin Lorre's career in America by keeping him labeled only as a Japanese sleuth. Then came the bombing of Chinese cities and Americans turned a cold shoulder on everything that savored of Japan—including Mr. Lorre's Mr. Moto. The undeclared war killed Mr. Moto. Now Lorre is free to do some really good work again and plays a comedy part in Zorina's picture, "I Was An Adventuress."

"Tower of London."

"Brother Rat And Baby."

The story of the second picture on the brother Rats of Virginia Military Institute begins one year after graduation. The "climax" of the first picture turns out to be a boy who can cause more trouble in a day than the Russian army in a week. Brother Rat Eddie Albert and his wife, Jane Bryan, are the parents of the baby, but the same quartet of friends bear with them through their troubles. Spending $200 of someone else's money and pawning a Stradivarius violin that doesn't belong to them, are just a few of their trouble. The other four major players in this Ohio feature are Priscilla Lane, Wayne Morris, Jane Wyman and Ronald Reagan.

"Thunder Afloat."

A spirited story of the little known episode in World War history in which enemy submarines started war on American shipping vessels only a few miles from the coast line, is told in "Thunder Afloat," which the Ritz presents Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Wallace Beery is seen as the doughty skipper of a tugboat in New England waters, and Chester Morris as the captain of a rival boat. Jane Withers and Leo Carrillo in "The Chicken Wagon Family" is the second film.

"Naughty But Nice."

Dick Powell and Warner's Oomph Girl, Ann Sheridan, top the cast of "Naughty But Nice," which the Majestic shows Sunday and Monday. Gale Page who has been confused with the Lane sisters because of playing in "The Four Daughters" series, is also featured in this story of a serious music composer who unintentionally goes "swing." The comedy element is in the capable hands of Allen Jenkins and Maxie Rosenbloom. A second feature is "Missing Evidence" with Preston Foster and Irene Hervey.

"First Love."

The Deanna Durban picture, "First Love," returns to Mansfield movie goers on Sunday when the Park presents it. The story is the most charming romance and most enduring love story in the world—that of Cinderella and Prince Charming. The old story is done in smart, modern setting, with Lewis Howard playing the modern Prince who found his lady by means of a silver slipper. Shown for the first time in Mansfield will be "Thou Shalt Not Kill" with Charles Bickford.

Tygers' Second Half Rally Falls Short, Lose 35 to 28

(Special to News-Journal)

HAMILTON—One of the most determined rallies ever staged on a local hardwood went for naught here last night when Mansfield fell before Hamilton, 35 to 28, before a crowd of 1,500. The Tygers outscored Hamilton, 19-13, in the second half but could not overcome huge lead built up by Big Blue in first heat.

Hamilton registered first 12 points of game and at one time held a 20-4 lead. The Blues' halftime lead was 22-9. It was a rough contest and 26 personal fouls were called.

Don Rose, Mansfield guard, was dismissed in the third period for starting a fight which was quickly quieted.

Mansfield was powerless to stop Hamilton's fast break in the opening half, but held the Blues to five field goals in final periods. Tygers hooped three field goals in the first half and six in the second.

Jack Shiplet, sub forward, paced Mansfield offensively and defensively, scoring eight point. Childs, Hamilton guard, dropped in five long baskets to lead scorers of both teams.

IN THE RUHL BOOK

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

JUST back from Los Angeles, Hollywood ad Pasadena, Nick Weber has plenty to tell the home folk this week.

Weber, a member of the Tennessee football team, which was beaten in the Rose Bowl game, says it's "a great country." He also admitted that Southern California's footballers are plenty tough. "The best we faced all year," the ex-Tiger declared.

Would he like to go to the Rose bowl again next year? Certainly, he said. "But if we'd get the bid again we'd go to play football," Nick said.

Director Clarence Brown, a Tennessee alumnus, was too perfect of a host, we learned from Nick's conversation.

And Hedy LaMarr . . . Nick thinks she's the "Oomph" girl of all the actresses he met in Hollywood. But Marjorie Weaver's swell, too, Nick agrees. The Mansfield boy was her escort at Director Brown's Christmas party.

We've often wondered why those who see the error in the print week after week fail to tell us these things.

WELL, sir, Bellville's Bluejays are still undefeated in the Richland county league, but they got a scare last night.

A determined band of Minutemen from Lexington really applied the pressure last night, and the final count showed Bellville the winner by a 23 to 22 count.

It was the eighth straight triumph for the undefeated Bluejays and the sixth in league competition, and it was the lead in the half that carried them through to victory.

The Minutemen rallied to garner a single point in the first period and only five in the next frame, but they came into their own in the second period, tallying 17 points to eight for the hosts.

Bellville led 8 to 0 at the end of the opening quarter, 15 to 5 at the half and 21 to 18 going into the final quarter.

Bill Martin, county scoring leader, led the Bluejays with 15 points, but he obtained only four of this total in the final half. Wilbur Wade, Lexington guard, did a magnificent job of halting Martin in the final period. Wade also led the Minutemen in scoring with 12 points.

In the preliminary game which went into an overtime period, Bellville won 15 to 13, Warner contributing the winning basket.

Conn Not Ready For Joe Louis, Says Dempsey

PITTSBURGH —(U.P.)— Billy Conn, the light heavyweight champion, is "still a long way" from a shot at Joe Louis and the heavyweight championship, according to Jack Dempsey, the former heavyweight titleholder.

While refusing to make any "wild predictions," Dempsey said here last night that Conn "will go far in the boxing game, but he's still a long way from a crack at Joe Louis." The Ol' Manassa Mauler, who refereed a heavyweight bout here last night, said there was little to compare between Conn and Gene Tunney, the man who dethroned Dempsey.

Renaissance Club Proves Class In Easy Win Here

Professional Cage Champions Defeat City Loop All-Stars, 42 to 30, Before 900.

By CHARLES MARTIN

AS FAR as Mansfield is concerned, the New York Renaissance quintet is still the world's champion.

That fact was proved conclusively in the Mansfield high school gymnasium last night when the Rens chalked up a 42 to 30 triumph over the City Class A league All-Stars before a gathering estimated at 900.

Their spirits high after the recent upset win scored over the Celtics, the All-Stars ran into different opposition last night. They couldn't gain possession of the ball.

The famous New Yorkers took six shots at the basket after the intermission (they made four of them), and then started whipping the ball around.

They passed backward, forward, sideways and submarined the ball around. They even set the ball on the floor, but still the All-Stars couldn't do anything.

Several times the Mansfield team was able to break up the uncanny ball handling and cashed in with baskets, but it wasn't enough to overcome or even bother the visitors.

From the opening whistle it was evident that the All-Stars wouldn't be able to throttle the Rens' spectacular shooting.

Before Hank Richards' combine could set up a defense to halt the fast-breaking attack, the Rens were out to a nice lead. The count stood 9 to 0 before Mansfield scored, and it was six minutes later that the All-Stars tallied their first basket. Noel Morgan scored the bucket.

With "Wee Willie" Smith, a Cleveland lad, pacing the attack, the Rens went ahead, 19 to 9, in the first quarter, 34 to 14, at the half and were leading 38 to 22 going into the final period.

The All-Stars outscored the winners, 16 to 8, in the last half, but whenever they crawled close to the Rens' total, the winners just tipped in a couple of baskets and went on flipping the ball around the court.

Smith set the individual pace for the evening with 14 markers, while Freddie Lewis led the losers with 12 points. "Puggy" Bell, star forward, added 12 points to the Rens' total. George Hummel's play under the basket was outstanding for the All-Stars.

Raemelton Farm, one of the two teams sharing first place in the Friendly House Senior Class A league, defeated the Isaly Dairy five, 29 to 22, in the preliminary contest. Schaffer, Dairy forward, was high-point man with 12 tallies.

FATHER'S DEATH CAUSES PROBE

Indignant Chicago Citizens Launch Investigation Of Labor Racket.

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO—Marinus Hvid alive was simply another small garage owner who couldn't get along with the union.

But Marinus Hvid dead represented a cause celebre today for a public-spirited drive to wipe out once and for all the racketeering element in Chicago's labor movement.

A special committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce has been formed for the single purpose of bringing to justice the men who beat him fatally the night of Dec. 28.

Fifty-six business, civic and religious leaders have formed another group to attack the problem of labor violence in its broader aspects.

The Affiliated Garages of Chicago, an organization to which Hvid once belonged, has offered $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of his slayers.

Thirty-Second Victim.

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney is directing a grand jury investigation of Local 727 of the Auto Livery Chauffeurs, Drivers and Garage Helpers union, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, and of its association with the garage owners organization.

Marinus Hvid, 55 years old, the father of four children, was the 32nd person whose death has been attributed to labor violence in Chicago and its suburbs during the last nine years.

PISTOL CAMERA

LEXINGTON, Ky.—(AP)—Dr. A. S. Hendrick has two hobbies—photography and the collection of old firearms—so he combined the two in a new telescopic camera he now uses to take pictures at long range. The camera was made of a sardine can and an old flashlight. It is constructed so it can be held and aimed like a pistol.

Reflecting partly the high rate of automotive production, December imports of crude rubber were estimated by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce at 69,134 tons, second largest aggregate for this month on record. The total was said to have been about 10 per cent greater than had been expected by the industry.

UNDER BOND

Captured O. S. R. Fugitives Face Grand Jury Action.

Two Ohio State reformatory fugitives captured in Dayton 24 hours after their escape were held in the county jail today under bond awaiting jury action on a charge of operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent

Arraigned in municipal court this morning, the pair pleaded innocent, waived preliminary hearing and asked to be bound over to the grand jury. Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch fixed bond at $2,000 on each.

The fugitives—James Mayer, 24, and Frank Grisby, 22,—both of Montgomery county were accused by Charles M. Zitzer, 321 Park avenue west, of stealing his automobile from his garage Sunday night, after their escape from inside the reformatory walls.

The pair was captured by Dayton authorities with the stolen car. They were returned to Mansfield Monday.

overpowered the others as they touched earth.

On other points little activity was reported today, but some observers said the Russian air raids on southern and western Finland yesterday indicated intentions to increase the tempo of the war.

The raids severed Helsinki's telephone communication with foreign countries and put out of commission the radio station at Lanti, 60 miles north of Helsinki.

Turku (Abo), southwestern Finnish seaport that is an important arrival point for foreign men and material, was raided by 30 planes, and bombers ranged northward up the Bothnian coast.

Damage was reported not extensive, although there were some casualties.

The Red army's communique noted "clashes of military units" in the Patrozavodsk direction, which is in Russia north of Lake Ladoga, but did not specify their extent.

British Fliers Fight Off Nazi Bombers.

LONDON — (AP) — British fliers fought off German aircraft on the east coast today, while the air ministry announced that three German destroyers had been attacked Thursday and reconnaissance flights were completed over Austria and Bohemia last night.

One German plane was shot down off the southeast coast of Scotland this morning. The Authoritative Press association said it was off the Firth of Forth.

Shortly after noon, planes described as German were sighted over an east coast town. No guns were heard and no sirens sounded, but British fighters were reported also overhead.

Three planes which one observer said "positively" were German, from their black paint and the sound of their motors, flew over Norfolk about noon, bound inland.

Shoppers rushed into the streets in time to see three British planes moving seaward at great speed. Watchers estimated the German craft were about 4,000 feet high.

The air minstry said the coastal command dropped bombs close to three German destroyers which it sighted Thursday. It denied that a British plane had been downed near Luxembough yesterday, asserting it outran four Germans to reach its base safely.

(The German high command announced that two British planes had been shot down yesterday, one of them when eight British craft attacked German destroyers in Helgoland Bight.)

The air ministry's report of flights over Austria and Bohemia was the first covering these districts, although Royal Air Force fliers had penetrated other parts of the German interior previously in the intensifying air war across the North sea.

carrying three men each, were circling over barren Borego valley, 87 miles northeast of here, in regular formation—one above and slightly behind the other—when shifting currents, the survivors said, brought them too close together.

The upper plane sheared off a wing of the lower, and both spun crazily.

"We were flying at about 10,000 feet when we collided," said Jackson, who was flying with Funk and Crowson.

"I saw Ensign Funk bail out in a parachute, and then I bailed out. The last I saw of Funk, he was floating away. One plane crashed on a hillside in flames."

All had to walk several miles to reach civilization. Funk and Dickson landed closely enough to find their way out together.

4 Killed When Airplane Burns.

CASEY, Ill.—(AP)—Four persons were killed when their small plane ploughed into a muddy cornfield and burst into flames last night.

The mangled bodies, found a hundred yards from the wreckage, indicated the victims met almost instant death.

E. A. Lashmet, deputy Cumberland county coroner, identified three of the victims as members of a Detroit, Mich., family.

They were Mrs. Mary Borowicz, 37, her son, Leonard, 19, and her daughter, Joanne, 17. The fourth victim was William B. Maycock, 44, pilot and head of the Maycock Charter Service of Detroit.

3 Flying Ohioans Hurt In Crash.

ELLAVILLE, Ga.—(AP)—A crash during the homeward leg of an air jaunt kept two of three Ohioans in a hospital here today.

Injured as their plane clipped the top of a tree and plunged to earth were Henry Bender, Toledo building contractor; John Schreiner, 27, Cleveland engineer, and Miss Myrtle Bender, also of Ohio.

Bender suffered a serious back injury and facial cuts. Schreiner, held for observation, probably will be dismissed today. Miss Bender was released after treatment for cuts and bruises.

Two weeks ago the three flew to the Miami-Havana air races, then continued to the Bahamas and were on their way home as they became lost in a fog yesterday and crashed.

WELCOME 'KET' AT DEDICATIONS

torcycles, and Henry Ford cut the price of his small autos to less than the price of a motorcycle.

It was during that time that the company started manufacturing bus and truck bodies, and by 1925 the firm had launched its new venture and was on the upgrade again. Kettering compared the experiences of the company in those trying years with the efforts of a person to get out of a "mud hole."

In complimenting the town on the new plant, he said that "if every fifth town in the United States would start one new industry, unemployment would end."

During the ceremonies, Mayor Edward L. Smith read a telegram which he received from The Mansfield News-Journal. "Congratulations on Loudonville Day," the message read. "The addition to your high school and the Flexible plant are most noteworthy achievements. Our greetings to Mr. Kettering 'Loudonville's Own,' and we are proud to be near Loudonville. The following extract from our editorial of today's issue is our tribute to you: 'It has not been Loudonville's ambition to grow rapidly—it has preferred to grow well—and when human judgment becomes more mature, it will be communities like Loudonville that can provide solutions for some of America's most vexatious problems.'" It was signed by John W. Graham, general manager of The News-Journal.

Laurence N. Russell, architect of the building, was also a speaker. Music was provided by the high school band, under the direction of William J. Yeager.

In his address at the dedication of the school addition last night Kettering said that moving times are ahead of us.

"We are not changing our ways fast enough to keep up with the world.

We are living in a period of transition from individual production to group production, and when we learn how to assimilate the method of group production, we will have ended unemployment."

Other speakers at the dedicatory ceremonies at the school last night were R. F. McMullen, superintendent of schools; J. Frank McClure, president of the board of education, Dr. E. N. Dietrich, state director of education, and C. E. Budd, a past superintendent of the school.
